Boyken International Strengthens Project Management Staff Don Marshall brings construction management expertise to Houston firm

Houston, TX (June 5, 2008) ~ Boyken International, a globally-recognized program management and consulting firm, has announced the appointment of Don Marshall as senior project manager to the company's Houston team.

A versatile addition to Boyken's Houston project management team, Don Marshall brings more than 15 years of Healthcare project management, estimating and strategic planning knowledge to a wide range of Healthcare construction projects. Marshall will provide project management for Boyken's healthcare and higher education projects in Houston.

"Don has worked on the owner and the contractor side, so he has worn both hats," explains Robert Ferguson, director of operations for Boyken International's Houston office. "His well-rounded knowledge of the building process makes him a key asset for Boyken's diverse client base."

Marshall acquired construction management experience at two major International Construction Company, and served as the senior facilities project manager for M.D. Anderson Cancer Center in Houston. Marshall holds a Bachelor of Science in industrial engineering degree from Texas Tech University.
